

SCARLET HOUSE'S PASTOR.

The Rev. Mr. Hinman Calls the Rev. Mr. Hinman a Hatesmake in the Grass.

The testimony put in for Bishop Hare in the Hinman-Hare libel case yesterday was entirely from written depositions taken by commissioners in the Sioux country, and was to the effect that Mr. Hinman's reputation was bad.

John Abbott, a former Presbyterian minister at Sioux Agency, testified through an interpreter that Mr. Hinman's reputation had been bad since July 22, 1878.

Q.—Did you ever see Mr. Hinman go to Tip-Top?

A.—Yes, he went there all the time; all people knew it.

Q.—What did he say about his visit?

A.—I told him, "I fear that you always go to see that girl, and I want you to quit it, because they are going to get you."

Q.—Did he say anything else about your name here?

A.—If you don't pay me, I may get into trouble for it some time.

Q.—What do you mean by trouble?

A.—Riggs and Geyser are talking about me all the time. I am afraid they will bring me up before the court.

Q.—And then he said to me: "You are a wicked man, and if any one talked about you they would have to leave town."

Q.—What did he say to you?

A.—He said to me, "I am a good man, but he may speak to me."

Q.—Did he say anything else?

A.—He said to me, "We are two ministers here, and we ought not to speak to each other."

Q.—And then he said to me: "We shall shake hands and be friends."

A.—I shook hands with him, and he went away.

The testimony of Miss Mary C. Graves enveloped the jury a little. Miss Graves testified that Mr. Hinman had told her that Miss Kerbach was a sunshiny little German girl, and that she was a good woman, very sweet. Miss Graves thereupon wrote the statement down in her journal.

Q.—Do you think it was a correct description? A.—No, it was not.

A.—I was not very favorably impressed with her. She had a temper.

The defendant rested. J. A. Potter of Yankton, South Dakota, a former reporter for twenty years, testified that Mr. Hinman's reputation in the Indian country was good. Robert Cox of Yankton made a similar deposition. So did F. J. Dickey, a former reporter for the Sioux City Journal, the Sioux and now of Yankton. William Miner, a merchant of Yankton, was of the same opinion. The case is to be resumed to-day.
